SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Russian determination to wield decisive, perhaps dominant influence in the creation of world peace machinery today threatened the United Nations conference with a series of big-power crises.

Hot tempers and hurt feelings as well as lingering hopes of a compromise went into today's second round of the battle over selection of a conference chairman. But even if this could be settled without more dispute, delegates generally took a pessimistic view.

The fight which broke out in a closed meeting of the steering committee yesterday, when Foreign Commissar Molotov blocked the election of Secretary of State Stettinius as chairman, demonstrated anew the Big-Three disunity which had developed in the dispute about Poland.

There was widespread fear that the same situation would arise over even more critical issues.

Today's 10:30 a. m. session was originally scheduled for another round of speechmaking. Instead, the steering committee was called into a second—and secret—session to try to break the deadlock over the chairmanship and organize the conference for work.

Another session of speeches was scheduled later (3:30 p. m. PWT). The Big-Four made their formal talks yesterday.

Meet Again Today

Stettinius had a two-hour session last night with the American delegation on the chairmanship dispute. Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) is reported to have termed it a "plea-unish thing" to scrap about. Connally and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) arranged to attend the steering committee meeting with Stettinius today.

Talk spread among delegates that neither the United States nor Britain would yield further to Russian demands for setting up a rotating system for all important chairmanships.

The British and Americans wanted to make Stettinius president of the conference and chairman of the key steering and executive committees. Molotov balked and Eden proposed that Stettinius be given the committee chairmanships. But he proposed also that the presidency—the job of presiding over the full conference — be rotated among the Big Four. Stettinius, Molotov, Eden and Minister Soong of China.

Shortly before midnight last night Stettinius met with several members of the Russian delegation, whose names were not disclosed, trying to reach an agreement assuring success of today's efforts to organize the conference.

In an earlier talk with military and naval advisers, a formula was worked out for setting up international trusteeships for ex-enemy dependent territories.

This provided that strategic base areas should be handled through the proposed Security Council, as being essential to the armed protection of future peace, and that other trustee territories should be supervised by the general assembly of the world organization, with

MERCURY DROPS TO 36 HERE OVERNIGHT

Unseasonal cold held forth in Ohio today and weather forecasters said it would be colder tonight before temperatures start upward tomorrow. The mercury dropped to 36 here last night.

Thermometers were in the near-freezing region in most cities last night, at the end of a full week of a cold spell that may cause widespread damage to crops and gardens.

One Ohio community, Newark, reported snow falling this morning, as the mercury plunged from a high of 68 yesterday to 34 at dawn.

There'll be frost in Ohio's northern counties, and possibly elsewhere tonight, but Saturday's temperatures should be higher, says the U. S. Weather bureau.

Dr. J. A. Scott, pastor of the Methodist church, was guest speaker when Amity lodge No. 124, I. O. O. F., celebrated the 126th anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows last night at the hall.

His subject was, "Is Life Worth Living?" Special music was furnished by Mrs. Charles Sneyel and Mrs. Goldy Waitman and daughter.

All the affiliated orders were represented at the meeting. Lunch was served.

Voices Plea For Russia and Poland

Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, arms outstretched, yesterday voiced anew Russia's plea for three votes in the World's Security Organization. In reviewing briefly the Polish question at San Francisco, he declared "it is not possible" to solve the issue without the Poles themselves.

War Production Cutbacks Ready To Begin, Krug Says

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 27.—V-E day is at hand, so far as cutbacks in war production are concerned. The long-awaited day may prove to be a "V-E Month" or longer, however, depending on the stubbornness of the Nazis' resistance.

But the end is so certain, the War Production board revealed in its monthly munitions report, that the Army and Air Forces have started curbing some armament programs to the output needed for Japan alone. More cuts are coming.

If Hitler's Reich dies the lingering death now indicated, WPB said last night, the shift from two-front to one-front warfare may be made without serious disruption in labor industry, since many of the cutbacks will have been made before the European victory is proclaimed.

Chairman J. A. Krug in a separate statement indicated that the shackles soon will be cast off from civilian goods production. He said V-E was prepared to make "appropriate relaxations in its industrial controls as plans, labor and materials are released from war work."

But he emphasized that "no relaxations on WPB controls will be made that will jeopardize war production."

Reconversion news thus overshadowed a major production victory: total munitions output in March, WPB announced, surpassed scheduled goals by six-tenths of one per cent. This margin, while slight, represents the first above-schedule production.

The Army is cancelling plant expansions not needed to defeat Japan alone and which can not be finished by September. Bachelier revealed: planned peaks in small arms and artillery ammunition have been leveled off; proposed tank output has been cut one-third; three types of aircraft fighters—have been put on a one-front war schedule.

A sample uniform will be in Salem for approval in about three weeks and then manufacture of the design will be started.

Material selected this time is an all-wool whipcord, predominately red with gay trimmings in black and gold. The old suits were a serge material.

100 BLOOD DONORS ARE STILL NEEDED

More donors are needed for the Red Cross blood bank Mrs. L. D. Cessna, chairman, reported today. The mobile blood donor unit from Cleveland will be at the Presbyterian church Monday and Tuesday. While a few more are needed for the first day, Mrs. Cessna said more than 100 are needed for Tuesday. The goal is 350 for the two days.

Registrations are being taken every day this week from 1 until 9 p. m. and can be made by calling 4500 at Memorial building or 4949.

RED SQUEEZE IS CRACKING INNER BERLIN

Russian Forces Fight Into New Defense Areas of Flaming Capital

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 27.—Berlin's inner defense core appeared cracking today under a massive Soviet squeeze operation.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's forces in the northwest sector surged forward three miles during the night, breaking into the Workers' district of Moabit and the fringes of the Tiergarten in the center of the flaming capital.

Lieutenant From Los Angeles, Soviet Private First To Meet

BY DON WHITEHEAD
WITH THE U. S. 69TH DIVISION, April 25.—(12 midnight — Delayed) — An American infantry officer and a Russian private squirmed across a girder of a blown bridge in the Elbe river today, pounded each other on the back and shook hands to seal a historic meeting of Gen. Hodges' First Army with Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army group.

"Put it there," the first words Second Lt. William D. Robertson, Los Angeles, called to his Red army friend in the bizarre meeting at 4:40 p. m. over the waters of the Elbe at Torgau, 28 miles northwest of Leipzig.

It was one of at least three contacts with the Russians made by men of the 69th division.

Honor For 69th Division
The union of the two great armies climaxed sensational drives from the west and east and ended intense suspense along the front over which unit would be the first to make the junction.

The 69th division is commanded by Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt, Detroit, Mich. It won the historic honor of making the first contact with patrols.

Just who was the first individual to meet the Russians was not entirely clear at this writing, but Robertson was the first to bring back proof to his division headquarters. The proof was a Russian major, captain, lieutenant and private.

One of the first to meet the Russians—if not the first—was Lieut. Albert L. Kotzebue of Houston, Texas. (AP Correspondent Hal Boyle said Kotzebue was the first.)

The happy Russians, beaming at everyone, were brought into the crowded command post of the fighting 69th division for a celebration of the event. Each of them made a speech which was interpreted for the throng.

"This is a great day on the meeting of two nations," said Maj. Anaphim Lariyev of Konev's 58th Guards division. "We extend warm-

Americans Capture Nazi Marshal's Train

(By Associated Press)
U. S. THIRD ARMY IN AUSTRIA, April 26.—(Delayed)—Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's private train has been captured in Cham, near the Czechoslovak frontier, and the commander of south Germany was reported today in virtually surrounded Regensburg, under guns of Gen. Patton's Third Army.

The officer in charge of the 15-car train said it was enroute to Regensburg to bring out Kesselring. He said he was not certain whether the marshal still was there.

The Americans captured 50 Messerschmitts on the big airport at Cham.

During the 11th Armored division's spectacular dash into Austria, the Americans saw more grim evidence of German atrocities. Ditches lining the road along one stretch were filled with grotesque, emaciated bodies of prisoners who had collapsed and been shot in a march from the Flossenburg concentration camp toward Munich. This correspondent counted 100 bodies clad in prison stripes within a half mile of a mountain road.

Junior High Orchestra, Chorus To Give Program

Walter Regal's Junior High school orchestra and the school choir, directed by Miss Doris Tetlow, will present a concert in the High school auditorium Tuesday, May 8, it was announced today.

A mission to the concert will be free. Children not accompanied by an adult, however, will not be admitted.

Complete details of the program will be announced next week.

Rheutan Won't File For Re-election To Council

Charles R. Rheutan, councilman-at-large, today announced that, "on account of conditions over which I have no control," he will not be a candidate for another term.

A Republican, Rheutan is completing his fifth term, or 10 years as a city councilman. During that time he has not missed a meeting.

He also has served six years as a member of the Civil Service commission.

American And Russian First Armies Meet At Torgau; Invade Austria

By JAMES LONG

PARIS, April 27.—The American First army and the Russians have joined in the heart of Germany near Leipzig, cutting the Reich in two.

Even as troops of Gen. Hodges and Marshal Ivan S. Konev solidified their junction at Torgau, Gen. Patton's American Third army invaded Austria and established radio contact with the Russians west of Vienna in a swift maneuver which virtually encircled Czechoslovakia and cut the Germans' vanishing hold in Europe into three great death traps.

Americans and Russians joined hands yesterday. Their patrols had met the day before. Torgau, historic town of 14,000 where ancestors of the Russians met their western Allies nearly two centuries ago in the seven years war, lies 58 miles southwest of dying Berlin and 28 northeast of Leipzig.

The junction hopelessly outflanked the Saxony capital of Dresden and split German armies for reduction in detail.

Maj. Gen. Emil Reinhardt's fighting 69th division was the first to join the Russians.

Both the northern and southern pockets were under violent and increasing assault. Three of Gen. Eisenhower's armies attacked the Bavarian redoubt, moving within 31 miles of Munich. Two Allied armies were driving up from the south past Verona and the Russians were closing in from the east.

Allied Capitals Make Joint Announcement
The White House, the Kremlin and Whitehall jointly announced the historic junction of the First army and the Russian First Ukrainian army group, led by Konev who helped turn impending disaster into victory at the gates of Moscow just before Pearl Harbor.

The end was not yet, but it was inevitably brought closer. The Germans still had 250 divisions, most of them under strength but many of them fighting with the desperation of the doomed.

The meeting of the First army and the Russians in the heart of Germany was a dramatic moment. The armies had come from places half a world apart.

Except for the incredible fanaticism of the die-hard Nazis' last stand, the meeting might have ended the worst war that the world has ever known.

But though the fight went on and may last for weeks, it carried the Western and Eastern Allies to the threshold of sure and imminent victory.

The two armies fought their way to the junction across the whole breadth of Europe—2,200 airline miles from Stalingrad on the Volga and from the Normandy coast on the Atlantic which Eisenhower invaded last June 6.

The French First army dashed to positions 31 miles west-southwest of Munich by reaching Landsberg, 20 miles south of Augsburg. The direction of the French drive suggested a move to encircle Munich.

The American Seventh army closed to within 35 miles of Munich from the northwest.

Patton's troops captured Ingolstadt, fortress city on the Danube, and moved two miles south within 38 miles of Munich. The American Seventh army and the French First were threatening that cradle of the Nazi party from the west and northwest.

Berchtesgaden was menaced by the 400,000 or more attacking Allies far east as Bordighera, on the Mediterranean six miles west of San Remo, clearing all the maritime Alps department to that point.

Japs Launch Rocket Bombs From Planes To Attack U. S. Ships

GUAM, April 27.—Airplane-launched rocket bombs piloted by suicidal Japanese are being used in the battle for Okinawa, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Already the erratic, explosive-loaded craft have been labeled "baka bombs," a Japanese word meaning "fool."

The little ships, launched from the underside of bombing plane fuselages, have a wingspan of about 16 feet, are more than 19 feet long, and have an eight-foot tailplane. They resemble tiny, single-seated airplanes. Pilots sit under a tear-drop canopy. A warhead of explosives is carried in the nose of each plane as it swoops inaccurately toward a target.

While the baka bombs attain high speeds they are difficult to maneuver, and ships dodge them by evasive action.

WENTZ AND PHILLIPS ARE LATEST TO FILE

Two Salem men, Arch Wentz, Republican, and Norman Phillips, Democrat, and S. R. Orr of Columbiana, also a Democrat, are the latest candidates to file intentions of seeking nomination in the July 31 primaries.

Wentz, Second ward councilman for the past three terms, is seeking re-election. Phillips, who previously announced his candidacy, is a former mayor and will oppose Republican R. R. Johnson, who intends to seek re-election.

Orr, the first Democrat to file from Columbiana, is seeking the nomination for village clerk.

The three filings today brings the county total to 41 so far. The deadline is May 2.

The War Today..

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

IF YOU'LL take your map and, with a crayon, fill in the area from which the Germans have been driven by the tidal wave sweeping westward out of Russia, you'll see that you have virtually a solid block which reaches down and covers all but a tiny corner of the Balkan peninsula.

That's of the greatest importance. It signifies that the fiery Balkans—for centuries the cockpit of the warring ground of wars—are undergoing a mighty change along with the rest of the continent. For we have there not only a military resurgence which has reclaimed the lands ravaged by the Huns, but a vast political change.

If you happen to choose a red crayon for your map work, you will have interpreted the phenomenon, Red Russia is the impulse back of this development in the Balkans which, by and large, now fall within the Soviet sphere of influence.

While you and I have been watching the catastrophe which is overwhelming the Reich's own territory, the Balkans have stolen a march on us. Marshal Tito's forces have all but flung the Germans out of Yugoslavia, strategic keystone of the whole Balkan peninsula, and have even crossed the old, Yugoslav-Italian frontier. Up in the valley of the Drava they're thrusting towards Austria itself, which we learn today Gen. Patton has penetrated along with the Russians.

One of the most remarkable aspects of this situation is that the Yugoslavs and the Bulgarians are cooperating in the military operations. A couple of years ago such a partnership would have been unbelievable. Bulgaria long has been a lone wolf, on the outs with most of the neighbors. Romania, too, is in the fold, and cocky little Albania, once more free of German and Italian tyrants, has a "popular front" conference which gives signs of being well within the Moscow orbit.

The offensive of the Yugoslavs has become a real menace to Hitler's back-door. Coincidence with the arrival of Yugoslav troops on the Italian frontier, we have reports of a powerful insurrection of patriots in northern Italy. The rebellion...

Bright Colors Will Make New School Band Uniforms Shine

Salem High school's marching band—60 pieces strong—will be clad in new bright red uniforms, trimmed in gold and black, at the first football game of the 1945 season. Director C. M. Brautigam announced today.

Measurements of all band members have been taken and the order for the new outfits placed with a Cincinnati concern, he said. The company has guaranteed officials that the suits will be here for use at the first game next fall.

The purchase of the new attire was financed through a drive by the Band Mothers club, aided by the Salem Saddle and Polo club last fall. Approximately $3,500 was raised to buy the new suits.

A sample uniform will be in Salem for approval in about three weeks and then manufacture of the design will be started.

American And Russian First Armies Meet At Torgau; Invade Austria

The junction hopelessly outflanked the Saxony capital of Dresden and split German armies for reduction in detail.

Maj. Gen. Emil Reinhardt's fighting 69th division was the first to join the Russians.

Both the northern and southern pockets were under violent and increasing assault. Three of Gen. Eisenhower's armies attacked the Bavarian redoubt, moving within 31 miles of Munich. Two Allied armies were driving up from the south past Verona and the Russians were closing in from the east.

The northern pocket was under violent assault from Russians on the east and from the British, Canadian and American First and Ninth armies on the south and west. The British advanced past captured Bremen in a drive to cut off Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein. Hamburg was besieged. The Canadians broke the Kusten canal line and moved on smaller North sea ports. The German command said the Ninth army crossed the lower Elbe on both sides of Tangermunde, where another junction with the Russians was imminent if it had not already taken place.

Allied Capitals Make Joint Announcement

The White House, the Kremlin and Whitehall jointly announced the historic junction of the First army and the Russian First Ukrainian army group, led by Konev who helped turn impending disaster into victory at the gates of Moscow just before Pearl Harbor.

The end was not yet, but it was inevitably brought closer. The Germans still had 250 divisions, most of them under strength but many of them fighting with the desperation of the doomed.

The meeting of the First army and the Russians in the heart of Germany was a dramatic moment. The Allies had come from places half a world apart.

Except for the incredible fanaticism of the die-hard Nazis' last stand, the meeting might have ended the worst war that the world has ever known.

But though the fight went on and may last for weeks, it carried the Western and Eastern Allies to the threshold of sure and imminent victory.

The two armies fought their way to the junction across the whole breadth of Europe—2,200 airline miles from Stalingrad on the Volga and from the Normandy coast on the Atlantic which Eisenhower invaded last June 6.

The French First army dashed to positions 31 miles west-southwest of Munich by reaching Landsberg, 20 miles south of Augsburg. The direction of the French drive suggested a move to encircle Munich.

The American Seventh army closed to within 35 miles of Munich from the northwest.

7th Army Liberates 7,000 Allied Prisoners

Lt. Gen. Patch's Seventh army made an 18-mile breakthrough and moved within six miles of Augsburg. His Tiger (10th Armored) and 44th division captured Memmingen, 34 miles from the Austrian frontier, and liberated 4,000 Allied prisoners.

British tanks lunged north of captured Bremen in a drive on Hamburg and a maneuver to seal off Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein. The Canadians broke the enemy's Justin canal line and advanced toward Wilhelmshaven and Emden.

Far southward on the Riviera, French forces struck into Italy as far east as Bordighera, on the Mediterranean six miles west of San Remo, clearing all the maritime Alps department to that point.

Patton's troops captured Ingolstadt, fortress city on the Danube, and moved two miles south within 38 miles of Munich. The American Seventh army and the French First were threatening that cradle of the Nazi party from the west and northwest.

Berchtesgaden was menaced by the 400,000 or more attacking Allies.

Holding The Line

Speaking of that well-known line against inflation, it would appear that the people as well as the government are holding it.

Figures show that Americans had an income of $93 billions in 1941 and spent $74.6 billions, or 80 per cent of it. In 1944 our income was $157 billions, of which $97.6 billions was spent. That's only 62 per cent of the national income. Of course, there were fewer things to buy, but what there were cost considerably more.

Not only did we spend 18 per cent less of our income last year than in '41. We also saved 9 per cent more of it and paid 8 per cent more in taxes.

After putting $18 billions into war bonds, savings accounts and insurance, we still had $17 billions in "loose money". If we had started throwing it around, or liquidating most of our bonds and savings, there might have been a start toward real and dangerous inflation.

Fortunately, we didn't. And while we may still hold our breath a bit, we're still holding the line. We need to keep doing it. And there still doesn't seem to be a better specific for inflation than putting that loose money in war bonds—and keeping it there.

Kamerad!

Nazi thought is mystifying at best, and when expressed in a smattering of English it becomes even more so. Thus we can't be sure what was going through the mind of the German soldier we read about who gave himself up to the Americans with these words:

"Surrender—New York—Detroit—John L. Lewis—Surrender."

We can scarcely hope that Nazi education taught and identified those names in a very flattering light. But still there's an outside chance that what he was really trying to say was this:

"I surrender to the people who piled on a narrow island the world's most imposing mass of masonry to house a great, rich city which stands today, unbombed and unharmed."

"I surrender to the people of another great city, one of many arsenals, whose planes and bombs and guns have blasted our own great arsenal of the Ruhr to rubble, and all but leveled our once proud capital of Berlin."

"I surrender to a country where a strong man can defy the orders and wishes of his government, wrongly and in time of war, and still live."

"In short, I give up."

Unreasonably Regional

This country is so full of regional pride and prejudice that inevitably a lot of political journalists hastened to explain the first President from Missouri with Missourian symbols.

There was a marked tendency, especially among the Washington and New York writers, to appraise Mr. Truman's qualities and predict his course of action in terms of the healthy skepticism and mulish resolution with which tradition has endowed the natives of his state.

Less specific writers sought to interpret the new President against the more general background of his Midwestern origin. But a quick look around might convince the most casual seeker after typical Midwestern political characteristics that there ain't no such animals.

It might be noted first that Alf M. Landon comes from Kansas, and Henry A. Wallace from Iowa. Senator C. Wayland Brooks is from Illinois. So is the poet and assistant secretary of state, Archibald MacLeish. Wendell Willkie was a native Hoosier, as is Senator Ray Willis. Senator Joe Ball hails from Minnesota, and former Senator Gerald Nye from North Dakota.

Now scramble them all together and try to find a common political denominator. You find instead that the theory of typical Midwestern political temperament has been nipped right in its grass roots.

The same divergence can be found among prominent politicians from any other section of the country. No further examples are necessary to prove that you can no more explain Harry S. Truman politically in terms of prairie farmland than you can explain Franklin D. Roosevelt in terms of Groton and Harvard.

Probably our regional thinking is a holdover from a century ago when the gulfs between industrial New England, the agricultural South and the frontier West were very real and very wide. Some of the basic economic differences remain today and probably always will. But the expansion and development of our country, and particularly the abundance and speed of transportation, make any barriers of thought inexcusable today.

And yet regionalism still exists as a result of habit, thoughtlessness and, to some extent, a political expediency that fosters it. It is a mild form of bigotry and not too serious, perhaps. But it is not good, either.

Today especially we need to be Americans first of all in our political thinking. President Truman has appealed to "every American, regardless of party, race, color or creed," for support in the effort to gain lasting world peace. He will need that support in all his new and difficult duties.

That does not mean we must be uncritical, unthinking robots. Unity, not uniformity, is what we need. And it will be easier of attainment if we can get over the habit of viewing our fellow citizens in other sections of the country with contempt, suspicion or condescension, and crediting them with mass thinking based on some cock-eyed geographical concept.

The Stars Say

For Saturday, April 28.

THE planetary configurations for this day point to adverse relations with higher-ups who may have more than ordinary influence on ambitious plans and propositions brought to their attention. An arrogant or ungracious attitude to these might cause loss of prestige, support and advancement, in business, professional, financial or social relations. For progress and expansion in promoting big deals, be clever, tactful and good natured for best results.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to putting over major propositions of expansive scope, but such may demand the substantial support, in finances, prestige or political influence, likely to be denied unless finesse and tact be used, with gracious approach. A clash of wills or ideas, with unamiable conduct, might entail loss of place, power and might divert the most precious aspirations or objectives. With calm, tact, and a spirit of compromise, important values are in sight.

A child born on this day may be ambitious, capable and well-qualified for progress and success, but may run counter to superior influence unless tactful, prudent and gracious in all relations.

Forgiving The Japs

By James Thrasher

Newspaper reports of a recent speech by Robert E. Sherwood attribute some rather amazing words to the seacetime playwright and wartime chief of the Overseas Branch of OWI.

Mr. Sherwood, back from the Pacific war theater, old the Urban League of New York that, once Japan is conquered, we must be prepared to extend the hand of fellowship to the remaining Japs and forgive them their atrocities "if we are to continue believing in our professed principles of democracy."

These, we repeat, are amazing words. And they are particularly amazing from the lips of Robert E. Sherwood. Even before the beginning of the European war he had declared a personal war on fascism. In two plays, "Idiot's Delight" and "There Shall Be No Night," he had spoken out in eloquent anger against the foes of democracy.

We do not suggest now that Mr. Sherwood has lost his hatred of totalitarianism. But it does sound as if his hatred of the men who practice and perpetuate fascism was stronger before the war than it is today, when the barbarous cruelty of those men has surprised anything that the playwright of 1936 and 1940 could have imagined.

According to the quotations from Mr. Sherwood's speech, he seems to feel that the only alternative to the complete extermination of the Japanese people is complete forgiveness. This is as illogical as his contention that our sincere profession of democracy depends upon that forgiveness.

It might seem, rather, that a belief in democracy should extend beyond a disapproval of fascism in the abstract to hatred of the men who have tortured, starved and murdered the defenseless, including our own citizens, in fascism's name.

Yet Mr. Sherwood, if he is quoted correctly, does not counsel our forgiving the Japanese civilians, the passive and ignorant and deluded who did not fight. He says that we must forgive the Japs their atrocities. He says this to those who have suffered the atrocities, and to the families of those victims. That is a pretty large order to fill.

The American people have no wish to imitate Jap or Nazi barbarism by annihilating the Japanese. We must live in the same world with them. But we are under no discernible compulsion to like them, let alone forgive them.

Mr. Sherwood has a major role in shaping our official propaganda for foreign consumption. We hope that his advice quoted above is to be understood as his private opinion, and not something which will be mistakenly labeled abroad as the preponderant sentiment of the American people.

New Treatment for Crippling Diseases

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CRIPPLING diseases such as paralysis, arthritis or joint inflammation and injuries often leave persons in a disabled state. Not only are the movements limited but the patients may suffer from pain and spasm which increase their activity.

Various types of treatment have been employed to aid these persons. Rest, massage, exercises, physical training and heat all have their place.

Recently, Doctor Herman Kabat of Minnesota has reported some good results with the use of the drug known as neostigmine or prostigmine.

For example, one of the patients, a woman, whom he treated had been confined to bed for six years because of rheumatoid arthritis and after two weeks of treatment was able to stand up and walk.

A man had been paralyzed on his right side for 17 years and was able after 24 hours to touch the top of his head, his opposite shoulder, to put a cigarette in his mouth and to move his hip. After a month of treatment, he could stand up straight with both knees straight and only a slight humping of his back.

Benefit Derived

Of course, these two cases do not mean that all patients with these various crippling disorders will be benefited, but they seem to indicate that some benefit may be derived in a number of instances.

The neostigmine was given by injection under the skin once or twice a day. This drug has been used in the treatment of a disorder known as myasthenia gravis, in which there is a great weakness of the muscles, and has been found beneficial in this condition although not curative.

The preparation has also been used by Doctor Kabat in the treatment of infantile paralysis. He found that it relaxed the muscles, relieved pain and increased the strength of the muscles, but here again, it cannot be hoped that the drug will overcome the paralysis, which the disease produces.

Altogether, Doctor Kabat has employed the preparation in 53 patients. Some of these patients had muscle spasm, others weakness of the joints and muscular weakness. Some were suffering from paralysis of one side of the body due to an apoplectic stroke. Included in the group were five who had spastic paralysis which was produced by brain injuries at birth.

Increases Movement

The outstanding results of the treatment with neostigmine were improvement in the range of motions, relief from pain, and increase in strength and endurance.

If joints have been so damaged that they are fixed, it cannot be expected that the neostigmine treatment will be of any help, and, if permanent paralysis has been produced, it cannot be expected that the drug will bring a cure.

However, these patients who are crippled do suffer from aches and pains and such great limitation of activities that many are practically helpless. Hence, any treatment which increases their activity and relieves their discomfort will be widely welcomed.

Further studies with neostigmine must be carried out before the percentage of patients who can hope for improvement can be determined.

REPORT GOERING RESIGNS, LEAVES BESIEGED BERLIN

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, April 27 — A German announcement that Reichsmarshal Herman Goering had resigned as chief of the now-impotent German air force because of "an acute heart condition" was followed today by a Moscow report that he had fled by air to an unknown destination.

The Moscow report asserted the Reichsmarshal — who once boasted that the Allies could never bomb that the Allies could have taken with him his wife and loot valued at $20,000,000. The Russians said the German's resignation to hide his sudden disappearance.

Long ranked as the No. 2 Nazi and heir to Hitler's power, Goering asked Hitler to be "relieved of his command as chief of the Luftwaffe at a time when his strength is needed" and the "Fuehrer has granted his request," a German broadcast said last night.

The radio announcement said he had been replaced by Gen. Ritter von Grein, promoted to field marshal.

A German general, newly captured by the U. S. Ninth army, said Goering probably had been executed.

This general, unidentified in a field dispatch but termed internationally known and one of the best-informed members of the German general staff, predicted the war would end within a few days and said Hitler still was in Berlin and probably would die there.

The general, who came across the Elbe river under a flag of truce and surrendered to American infantrymen, said he had just come from the German capital.

est greetings and congratulations on the destruction of Nazism. We hope this meeting will be the basis for peace in this world to come."

Capt. Vassili Petrov Nedov added:

"We have wanted to meet you for a long time. This is a great holiday for the whole world."

This linkup with the Russians was one of the strangest stories of the entire war and was not even anticipated when a group of Americans set out in a jeep at 10 a. m.

Among Americans in the jeep were Corp. James J. McDonnell of Peabody, Mass., Pfc. Frank P. Hill, Washington, Va., and Pfc. Paul Staub of the Bronx, New York.

This was the story as told by Robertson:

"Our company commander sent us out this morning to chase civilians off the roads. They were piling into Wurtzen in droves, running away from the Russians."

"You have no idea of the number of people on the roads. There were thousands of them and among them were many Allied prisoners of war who escaped from prison camps."

"German troops had thrown their weapons into ditches and were standing waiting to be taken prisoner."

"We kept on the move, now and then getting off the congested roads. We met about 30 British boys who were headed for Wurtzen. We told them where they could get food."

"The British told us they had seen some wounded Americans up the road at Torgau."

Painted American Flag
"We went on east to Torgau and found these Americans who had been held by the Germans to be shot because they were accused of espionage. They had been in Bavaria quite a while. We got some German guns for them and they guarded German prisoners who had thrown down their arms."

"We could hear small arms fire very close and they told us the Russians were just across the river."

"We left our jeep and went down on foot toward the river. We picked up a big white flag so they wouldn't shoot at us."

"We didn't know what the Russian uniform looked like and I was not sure the Russians would recognize our uniform."

"Near the Elbe was a very large castle with a high tower."

"We broke into a drugstore and got some paint. I painted four red stripes on our white flag and a field of blue, because I figured the Russians would recognize the American flag better than anything else."

"I climbed into the tower and stuck my head out and waved the flag. They stopped firing for a while."

"I yelled, 'American. Tovarith. Kamerad.'"

"They were yelling at me from across the river and fired two flares but I didn't see any flares to fire back."

"I left the flag flying and went down and found a Russian who had been a prisoner of the Germans. He shouted at the Russians to stop firing and I saw one Russian start across the bridge which was partly blown."

advance from industrial Siemensstadt, captured yesterday, was disclosed in front dispatches broadcast by the Moscow radio.

In the south, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army was believed to have completed occupation of Berlin's airport at Tempelhof.

At Moabit the Russians were in the area of the biggest prison in Berlin. The district adjoins the Tiergarten on the northwest and German reports indicated battles already were swirling over that great park. The Germans held only a third of Berlin.

Soviet dispatches described Berlin as a wilderness of crumbling stone swept by hot winds from the flames of burning buildings and heavily charged with brick and cement dust.

Russian flame throwers went to work prying out German units which had established machinegun nests in the ruins. One Soviet account said the fighting was raging high above the street in the corridors, on the stair cases, in attics and on the roofs of the larger buildings. Fighting also continued underground in Berlin's subway system.

Striking Rubber Workers Told To Return To Jobs
AKRON, April 27 — CIO-United Rubber Workers officials today faced alternatives of persuading idle employees of two Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plants to return to their jobs or explaining to the Regional War Labor board why the work stoppages continued.

The WLB yesterday ordered the employees to return immediately or a show-cause hearing would be scheduled.

The board order followed on the heels of a walkout of pit men, tire builders and truckers which halted plant No. 2 operations. A strike of 375 rim makers closed plant No. 3 Saturday.

Yesterday's walkout, which made some 3,500 workers idle, started with 19 curing pit employees impatient because of wage rate arbitration decision was overdue. C. V. Wheeler, president of the Goodyear URW local, reported.

Tire builders and truckers followed in what was described as a sympathy walkout.

Neither stoppage was authorized by the union, he added.

AAA Head Urges Farmers Make Lime Applications
Clifford F. Shaw, county AAA chairman, urges farmers who wish to apply limestone to order their supply now and accept delivery of the material whenever such delivery can be made.

Limestone is essential on soils that are lime deficient, and is needed to help grow legume crops such as alfalfa, red clover and sweet clover, to supply nitrogen and organic matter to the soil and to supply cheap high protein feed for livestock. Lime will not take the place of phosphorus or potassium and where there is a shortage of either of these materials in the soil, phosphate or potash needs to be applied in addition to lime for the successful growing of legumes, Shaw declares.

Oysters provide work for approximately 65,000 persons in the United States in normal times.

Adm. McIntire Cites Need Of Blood Plasma Supply

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 27 — With the prediction that the war will last longer than most Americans think, Vice Adm. Ross McIntire, surgeon general of the Navy, said, "the Red Cross cannot falter, because tougher fighting and higher casualties than bloody Iwo lie ahead."

"I have seen what the Red Cross is doing in practically every theater," Adm. McIntire said. "The greatest single factor in life saving is the blood substitute program that the Red Cross has carried out for the armed forces."

He added that doctors, nurses and medical corpsmen on two have reported that many more lives would have been lost there had it not been for blood plasma and whole blood.

"Everyday from San Francisco, 1,000 pints of whole blood go to the Pacific," he said. "This type, entirely different from plasma, is needed by the very badly wounded men. A hospital corpsman out on the field replied when asked what is the one greatest needed facility: 'More outfits with whole blood and plasma.'"

"Sounds sort of reminiscent, doesn't it, Judge?"
"Exactly and it's not hard to figure out. As soon as the distillers stopped making whiskey and devoted their entire facilities to the production of industrial alcohol for the Government... the racketeers muscled in again."
"I hate to think of how that might have spread, Judge, if the Government hadn't found it possible, without interfering with our war effort in any way, to permit a short resumption of legal whiskey production recently."

New Shoe Stamp Valid Aug. 1, OPA Announces

WASHINGTON, April 27. — Another shoe stamp will become valid Aug. 1 after a lapse of nine months.

In the meantime, airplane stamps 1, 2 and 3 will continue valid indefinitely.

OPA said its announcement now was made to enable consumers to budget their remaining stamps and to permit the shoe trade to make merchandising plans.

This is the first time since rationing began that a shoe stamp has not been validated each six months. The two-pair-a-year basis was abandoned because of heavy military demands and sharp increases in retail stocks.

The number of the new stamp was not announced.

Accident Victim Dies

Yanks Seek To Clear Out Japs Menacing Manila Water Supply

(By Associated Press)
MANILA, April 27.—American amphibious forces have invaded Negros in the second assault on the Philippine island since last March 29.

Shortly after the first troops hit the beach at Dumaguete, on the southern tip of the island, the Japanese—apparently prepared for such an eventuality—began destroying the city.

Explosions rocked Dumaguete as small forces began the invasion yesterday.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz, who flew over the city four hours after the invasion began, reported it still looked fairly intact.

Negros was invaded first on the northwest coast March 29, by the 4th division.

A Japanese menace to Manila's pending water supply commanded renewed attention today.

Two Yank regiments continued to battle entrenched Nipponese in the mountains east of Manila, trying to liberate the water source before a shortage materializes.

Elements of the Sixth division, whose objective was Wana dam on the Marikina river, fought a heavy Nipponese force on the crest of Mt. Pacawagan, 14 miles from the capital.

The peak is 1,680 feet high and the Yanks hold all but the crest. Another force was driving toward the dam, 20 miles from Manila.

INVADE NEGROS ON NEW SHORE

Yanks Seek To Clear Out Japs Menacing Manila Water Supply

(By Associated Press)
MANILA, April 27.—American amphibious forces have invaded Negros in the second assault on the Philippine island since last March 29.

Shortly after the first troops hit the beach at Dumaguete, on the southern tip of the island, the Japanese—apparently prepared for such an eventuality—began destroying the city.

Explosions rocked Dumaguete as assault forces began the invasion yesterday.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz, who flew over the city four hours after the invasion began, reported it still looked "fairly intact."

Negros was invaded first on the northwest coast March 29, by the 4th division.

A Japanese menace to Manila's dwindling water supply commanded renewed attention today.

Two Yank regiments continued to battle entrenched Nipponeese in the mountainous east of Manila, trying to liberate the water source before a shortage materialized.

Remnants of the Sixth division, whose objective was Wana dam on the Marikina river, fought a heavy Nipponeese force on the crest of Mt. Pucawan, 14 miles from the capital.

The peak is 1,680 feet high and the Yanks hold all but the crest.

Another force was driving toward Ipo dam, 20 miles from Manila.

HE'S READY TO GIVE HIS LIFE YOU CAN HELP SAVE IT!

A soldier lies wounded, his torn leg resting in a pool of his own blood. If he appealed to you for help, could you refuse? And it is within your power to help this boy. Last year the Red Cross was asked to provide 5,000,000 pints of blood. This year again the Red Cross urges you to donate a pint of blood. Blood plasma has already saved countless men—and as the war continues more and more soldiers must depend upon your donations of blood for life itself. Answer the call to mercy. Become a blood donor today.

Twenty minutes of your time may mean a lifetime for a soldier. From the Red Cross Center your blood starts on a long journey to bring the miracle of life to a wounded boy. It travels overseas by ship or plane in containers made of paper you salvaged. It is carried to an emergency operating room just behind the front lines, or perhaps it is used on a battle field under heavy shell fire. But wherever it is used some boy will owe his life to you for the blood you gave when it was so urgently needed.

a primary view to building up living standards of their people.
Military advisers included Lt. Gen. Stanley D. Embick of the Joint Strategic Survey committee and Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air.
In his formal conference speech yesterday Molotov spoke repeatedly of the new "coalition" of powers growing out of this war, which must take responsibility for preserving world security in the future. He made it plain that Russia intends to be recognized as a leading member of this coalition. To many delegates this sounded the keynote of Russia's international policy. And to them it apparently explained Russia's insistence on rotating control of the conference.
"As far as the Soviet union is concerned," Molotov told the delegates, "I should like to assure the conference at this time that in our country the whole people are brought up in the spirit of faith in and devotion to the cause of setting up a solid organization of international security."
"You must definitely know that the Soviet union can be relied upon on the matter of safeguarding the peace and security of nations."
Stresses Cooperation
Stettinius reviewed United States policy for world organization and emphasized that one condition of success "is the voluntary cooperation of all peaceful nations, large and small, acting with full respect for the equal sovereignty of each, to promote justice among nations, to foster respect for basic human rights and to solve those common problems upon which the security and the economic and social advancement of their peoples so largely depend."
Stettinius warned that "we must not leave this conference without achieving the high purpose for which we are here assembled."
Eden summed up the alternatives facing the conference this way: "Either we must find some means of ordering our relations with fair dealing and justice, while allowing nations great and small full opportunity to develop their free and independent life, or we shall soon head for another world conflict which this time must bring the utter destruction of civilization."

Military advisers included Lt. Gen. Stanley D. Embick of the Joint Strategic Survey committee and Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air.

In his formal conference speech yesterday Molotov spoke repeatedly of the new "coalition" of powers growing out of this war, which must take responsibility for preserving world security in the future. He made it plain that Russia intends to be recognized as a leading member of this coalition.

To many delegates this sounded the keynote of Russia's international policy. And to them it apparently explained Russia's insistence on rotating control of the conference.

"As far as the Soviet union is concerned," Molotov told the delegates, "I should like to assure the conference at this time that in our country the whole people are brought up in the spirit of faith in and devotion to the cause of setting up a solid organization of international security."

"You must definitely know that the Soviet union can be relied upon on the matter of safeguarding the peace and security of nations."

Stettinius reviewed United States policy for world organization and emphasized that one condition of success "is the voluntary cooperation of all peaceful nations, large and small, acting with full respect for the equal sovereignty of each, to promote justice among nations, to foster respect for basic human rights and to solve those common problems upon which the security and the economic and social advancement of their peoples so largely depend."

Eden summed up the alternatives facing the conference this way: "Either we must find some means of ordering our relations with fair dealing and justice, while allowing nations great and small full opportunity to develop their free and independent life, or we shall soon head for another world conflict which this time must bring the utter destruction of civilization."

Salem Musicians Enter Mt. Union Event Today

A large group of Salem High school students—members of the band, orchestra and vocal organizations—are in Alliance today participating in the third annual Mount Union college music festival.

Practices in the three groups, band, orchestra and chorus, were slated for morning and afternoon with a special program for the public planned at 8 tonight. Brautigam will direct the combined group of band, orchestra and chorus from 55 schools in the grand finale on the evening program.

Louis Dieckes of Ohio State university, D. Ernest Manwaring of Cleveland East Tech High school, and Amos G. Wesler of Cleveland John Hays High school are the other guest conductors.

Return Canton Man Who Fled Prison 11 Years Ago

LONDON, April 27.—A Canton slasher who escaped from London prison farm 11 years ago is on his way back under guard today from Pittsburgh, where he was arrested by police.

The man is Ned Dias, now 61, sentenced to Ohio penitentiary from Stark county June 28, 1933, to serve one to 20 years for cutting with intent to wound. He was transferred to the farm the same year and escaped twice, the last time Feb. 22, 1934.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

ious citizens are said to have captured the great city of Milan from which the broken and frightened Mussolini is rumored to have fled in disguise to Como near the Swiss border.

Thus we see that the military interests—and perhaps the political leanings—of this whole area of the Balkans and Italy are tending to merge. And of course both Hungary and Austria can be included in this field.

The politico-military picture in Yugoslavia is fascinating. Marshal Tito, both military and political leader, is hand and glove with Moscow. That represents a striking change from what I found there in 1938. At that time Prince Paul, a cousin of the late King Alexander of Yugoslavia, was principal regent during the minority of little King Peter.

Prince Paul had refused to recognize the Soviet government and was reputed to be hostile to the Communists. The prince was closely related to the Russian royal family, and it was whispered that he had ambitions to fill the throne of the Czars if he turned the Communists out. This being the case, he could scarcely be popular in Moscow. Paul is now a refugee, and King Peter who in England may never see his capital again.

Bulgaria's people naturally lean towards their brother Slavs in Russia. Rumania isn't so happy over developments, but her tent nevertheless is pitched on the plain of Moscow.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

XV
EARLY in February Cousin Victoria wrote us that she would board for the remainder of the winter at the American House. Balmoral was getting too much for her. She would arrive, she announced on the afternoon of the fifteenth. Cousin Victoria never consulted anyone's convenience. She merely announced her own.
I suppose we should be thankful for the "extra money," my mother said. "But it does seem a little strange," she added. "This is the last straw."
She won't stay a week, if she comes, my father assured her. You know Victoria. As likely as not she won't turn up at all. Someone ought to convince her that the Queen was steadfast. He added with a wink at the three of us.
Cousin Victoria had always imitated the Queen. From girlhood she had studied pictures of the royal courtiers, copied them. Her name bore the name of the Queen's. Her dog, now buried under the lilac bush, had been called Dash. Reading one that the Queen had gobbled her food, Cousin Victoria had formed the habit, too, and as a result was constantly "in distress."
Naturally she kept a Journal, which now in her seventy-third year had reached its eighty-second volume. This was her second most valued possession. Her first was a letter, dated Nov. 18, 1898, from a Lady-in-Waiting to the Queen herself, replying to Cousin Victoria's cabled congratulations upon the Jubilee of 1897.
Like the Queen, Cousin Victoria was a widow, and still (ostensibly) grieving. Her husband's picture hung above the fireplace in the parlor of Balmoral, delicately mustached and whiskered. His name, accordingly, had been Hiram, a circumstance which Cousin Victoria had found hard to bear. She was childless. When she lamented this state, you had the feeling that her grief was less for the children she lacked than for the opportunity she had missed of presenting them with royal names.

Instead of arriving on the afternoon of the fifteenth, as she had announced, Cousin Victoria came, bag and baggage (including volumes 76-82 of her Journal) on the morning of the twelfth in a hired carriage, much upset that no one had met her at the train.

She was a handsome woman. She possessed—you had to admit it—a truly regal air. Stepping out of that carriage, her hair as black as her bonnet, her eyes bright and her body nimble, she had a good deal about her that the Queen herself might have envied.

My father, who had told us only an hour earlier that he was going to spend a quiet morning at home, left almost immediately for his office. My mother had responsibilities in the kitchen. But we girls had no escape. We followed Cousin Victoria upstairs and dutifully helped her unpack.

Cousin Victoria's room was next to the parlor and facing the village. It was the best room in the American House. "If I put her there in the first place," my mother said, "there won't be any excuse for her wanting to change." But Cousin Victoria took nothing on faith. Before we could unpack a bag she had to be shown every bedroom, including our own. Then, satisfied, at least temporarily, she allowed us to help her settle.

In selecting Cousin Victoria's bedroom, my mother had thought of its convenience to the parlor, where she had planned for her to sit during the day with her crocheting.

Cousin Victoria used her spare time and surplus energy making lace for edging. This never wore out. A pair of drawers might fall into shreds, but the lace remained as good as ever. In order that none should be wasted, my mother used it lavishly around hems, necklines, and even arm-holes. We girls had hardly a spot on us that had not at one time or another been scratched by it. (Cousin Victoria had a very embarrassing way of lifting our skirts to see how it was wearing.) Roll after roll lay untouched in her work basket. Yet she kept right on....

But Cousin Victoria soon made it clear that she didn't care for the parlor. She preferred the sociability of the office. She ignored Mr. Cutter—as she did all the help—but she relished the drummers. One of them couldn't be in the office five minutes before she knew his product, his route, his schedules, and the size of his family. Even the most agile couldn't escape her, for she had her chair right by the door with another drawn up beside it. If a victim started by, she seized his forearm, and under her grip even the strongest wilted.

This distressed my mother terribly. Something had to be done, she said.

Something was. During the morning Cousin Victoria wrote in her Journal, but during the remainder of the day keeping her away from the office became another of our chores.

There were just two ways you could keep her in the parlor. One was to get her to give you a lesson in lace making; the other was to get her to read aloud from one of her Journals. (These were underlined, of course, in the manner of the Queen.) Since long and intimate association had made us detest the lace, we usually promoted the Journals. They were dull reading. "Awakened at seven. Lay until seven-fifteen. For breakfast, oatmeal, prunes, gooseberry jam, toasted muffin. Two cups of tea. (Green.) Recorded the events of yesterday. Examined the books of F. of the R. F. Branch 2. Found them in good order. Re-read In Memoriam. Here follows my reflections on it...." Those reflections might cover from 10 to 20 pages.

We began to think more longingly than ever of the time when vacation would be over.

Columbiana Makes Plans For Union V-E Day Rites

COLUMBIANA, April 27.—A V-E day of prayer has been planned by the Ministerial association to be held on the day that the government announces that hostilities have ceased.

The union service will be held in the Methodist church at 8 p. m. Church bells will toll one half hour before the service begins.

Most of the churches will be open all day for prayer and meditation. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Rev. Herbert A. Smith of the Presbyterian church, chairman; Rev. L. Nathan Black of the Christian church and Rev. Carl B. Hanks of the Nazarene church.

Have You Tried to Buy an Electric Toaster?

● When you try to buy an electric toaster, a radio, a refrigerator or many other household articles, what does the salesman say!

"Sorry, it is not being made. You know the manufacturers are making other things needed for the war."

That, too, is the reason more than 75,000 Ohio homes are waiting for telephone service. For three years telephone factories and man power have been working exclusively on field communications equipment and electrical weapons for the army and navy.

When Germany and Japan are defeated, and only then, will the job of making switchboards, instruments, cables and other items needed to give service to us here at home, be resumed.

But this will not be a quick job. Unlike your electric iron, which is ready for use almost as soon as it leaves the assembly line, telephone equipment must be fitted into the existing systems. That means a tremendous job. New buildings must be built, old ones enlarged, intricate equipment installed and miles and miles of cables laid under city streets and strung along country roads.

Our plans are all ready and you can be sure we will live up to telephone traditions to push the work. We are anxious for the day to come when we can say, "We will connect your telephone the day you want it."

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

EARLY in February Cousin Victoria wrote us that she would be coming to the American House. Balmoral was getting too much for her. She would arrive, she announced, on the afternoon of the twentieth. (Cousin Victoria never consulted anyone's convenience. She merely announced her own.)

"I suppose we should be thankful for the extra money," my mother said. "But it does seem a little strange." "What she meant was, 'This is the last straw,'" she said.

"She won't stay a week, if she comes," my father assured her. "You know Victoria. As likely as not, she won't turn up at all. Someone ought to convince her that the Queen was steadfast," he added with a wink at the three of us.

Cousin Victoria had always irritated the Queen. From girlhood she had studied pictures of the royal costumes, and being an expert seamstress, copied them. Her home bore the name of the Queen's. Her dog, now buried under the lilac bush, had been called Dash. Reading once that the Queen had gobbled her food, Cousin Victoria had formed the habit, too, and as a result was constantly "in distress."

Naturally she kept a Journal, which now in her eighty-second volume reached its eighty-second volume. This was her second most valued possession. Her first was a letter, dated Nov. 16, 1898, from a Lady-in-Waiting to the Queen herself, replying to Cousin Victoria's cable congratulations upon the Jubilee of 1897.

Like the Queen, Cousin Victoria was a widow, and still, ostensibly, grieving. Her husband's picture hung above the fireplace in the parlor of Balmoral, delicately mused and whiskered. His name, accordingly, had been Hiram, a circumstance which Cousin Victoria had found hard to bear. She was childless. When she lamented this state, you had the feeling that her grief was less for the children she lacked than for the opportunity she had missed of presenting them with royal names.

Instead of arriving on the afternoon of the fifteenth, as she had announced, Cousin Victoria came, bag and baggage (including volumes 76-82 of her Journal) on the morning of the twelfth in a hired carriage, much upset that no one had met her at the train.

She was a handsome woman. She possessed—you had to admit it—a truly regal air. Stepping out of that carriage, her hair as black as her bonnet, her eyes bright and her body nimble, she had a good deal about her that the Queen herself might have envied.

My father, who had told us only an hour earlier that he was going to spend a quiet morning at home, left almost immediately for his office. My mother had responsibilities in the kitchen. But we girls had no escape. We followed Cousin Victoria upstairs and dutifully helped her unpack.

Cousin Victoria's room was next to the parlor and facing the village. It was the best room in the American House. "If I put her there in the first place," my mother said, "there won't be any excuse for her wanting to change." But Cousin Victoria took nothing on.

faith. Before we could unpack a bag she had to be shown every bedroom, including our own. Then, satisfied, at least temporarily, she allowed us to help her settle.

In selecting Cousin Victoria's bedroom, my mother had thought of its convenience to the parlor, where she had planned for her to sit during the day with her crocheting.

Cousin Victoria used her spare time and surplus energy making lace for edging. This never wore out. A pair of drawers might fall into shreds, but the lace remained as good as ever. In order that none should be wasted, my mother used it lavishly around hems, necklines, and even arm-holes. We girls had hardly a spot on us that had not at one time or another been scratched by it. (Cousin Victoria had a very embarrassing way of lifting our skirts to see how it was wearing.) Roll after roll lay untouched in her work basket. Yet she kept right on....

But Cousin Victoria soon made it clear that she didn't care for the parlor. She preferred the sociability of the office. She ignored Mr. Cutter—as she did all the help—but she relished the drummers. One of them couldn't be in the office five minutes before she knew his product, his route, his schedules, and the size of his family. Even the most agile couldn't escape her, for she had her chair right by the door with another drawn up beside it. If a victim started by, she seized his forearm, and under her grip even the strongest wilted.

This distressed my mother terribly. Something had to be done, she said.

Something was. During the morning Cousin Victoria wrote in her Journal, but during the remainder of the day keeping her away from the office became another of our chores.

There were just two ways you could keep her in the parlor. One was to get her to give you a lesson in lace making; the other was to get her to read aloud from one of her Journals. (These were undervalued, of course, in the manner of the Queen.) Since long and intimate association had made us detest the lace, we usually promoted the Journals. They were dull reading. "Awakened at seven. Lay until seven-fifteen. For breakfast, oatmeal, prunes, gooseberry jam, toasted muffin. Two cups of tea. (Green.) Recorded the events of yesterday. Examined the books of P. of the R. F. Branch 2. Found them in good order. Re-read In Memoriam. Here follows my reflections on it...." Those reflections might cover from 10 to 20 pages.

We began to think more longingly than ever of the time when vacation would be over.

Mullins Softball Team "Suffering" From Too Much Material

New Pilot, "Patsy" Konnerth To Choose From List Of 21 Players For Factory Team

Although the Salem China Co. softball team monopolized the Class A softball picture in Salem last season, the Mullins Mfg. Corp.—long a builder of championship teams—will be much in the picture this year with a stronger aggregation—on paper, at least—than the 1944 team which won 10 and lost 15 during the regular season.

The squad last season was piloted by Eddie Scullion, who plans to drop into a business managing capacity this year and turn the game reins over to George "Patsy" Konnerth, a veteran player.

Now honorably discharged from the Army after more than a year's service, Konnerth—already dubbed "Connie Mack" by his players—will hold a workout at the field adjoining Rely stadium at 6:15 p. m. Monday to iron out pre-season possibilities.

While most Class A teams are searching madly for material and crying over the dearth of manpower, Manager Konnerth has his problems exactly in reverse.

From last year's squad of 13 regulars, he has six returning veterans—all good material—plus a host of new and promising candidates who bring his team total to 21 players.

Back from last season are: Pitcher Marty Pauline, who won nine and lost 13; Outfielder Bernard Miglarini, who batted .180; Outfielder Vince Dominici, who clubbed 200; Shortstop Gordy Scullion with an average of .211; Second Baseman John Balta, a .219 hitter and Outfielder Al Catlos, who was the league's third best hitter last year with .333 average.

Walter Brian (.296), Paxon, third baseman in 1944, is expected to work around first base for Mullins this season and Francis Lanney (.257), who batted the Shen's out of 13 wins in 25 games, will be performing for the factory men along with Pauline.

Bernard Schopfer, a former Placencia hardballer, is an infield candidate and Jimmie Appedison, league's leading home run slugger in 1944, may play with Mullins.

Both the Salem China and Mullins are claiming the stocky third sacker this season and as yet a definite decision has not been reached. Appedison was slated to replace Razor Eddy, Pottery third baseman, but may play with the Mullins out of field instead.

Newcomers to the Class A loop since last season and trying out for the factory crew Monday include: M. Dillinger, Carl Stahlsmith, J. Glenn, Jim Smith, Matt Leibhart, Bob Ingledue, Regis Donnelly, O. Fitch, N. Matsuk, T. Marino and D. Carrier.

Dillinger, Stahlsmith and Glenn are infield prospects while both Smith and Leibhart are catchers. The rest of the new candidates are outfielders.

From the collection of top-notch material, Konnerth is expected to mould one of the finest aggregations to represent Mullins in several years.

His prospects of upsetting the top China crew are especially good in that a pair of veteran and formidable pitchers are available, whereas the Potters have only one.

Lanney is noted as having one of the fastest arms in the league and his control is a far cry from poor. He stopped batters cold last year and dropped the majority of his games as a result of poor fielding and hitting support from his teammates. He is also talented at the plate and will be an able assistant for the Veteran Pauline, a crafty hurler in his own right.

Gone from the 1944 Mullins lineup are Alec Simion (.145), Jerry Smith (.154), Cornelius Sobotka (.190), Bill Faloon (.228), Bill Zimmerman (.233), Wally Linder (.294), and Veteran Merle Caldwell (.300).

Several of the above are now in service and others have declined to play.

INDIANS SEEKING A TOUCH OF GOOD WEATHER AND SOON

Second of Double Header Rained Out Yesterday As Browns Win One

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, April 27.—Cleveland's Indians beat their war drums for a bit of sunshine today as the Detroit Tigers arrived in the Forest city to open a three-game series with the Tribe.

The Indians finally played one game yesterday of a series with the St. Louis Browns—and that was one too many. Luke Sewell's boys won, 4 to 3. The contest, scheduled as the opener of a doubleheader, was halted twice by rain. No attempt was made to start the second game.

The Browns' one-armed Pete Gray, scoring the tying run in the eighth inning, made a circus catch of a windblown fly to throw a runner out at second, and lashed out two singles. Nelson Porter won his first victory of the season, driving in the winning run in the ninth and set the Tribesmen down with seven hits. Vernon (Junior) Stephens, heavy-hitting shortstop, poled home a run.

Catcher Hank Ruskowski drove in the first two Indian tallies with a single in the fourth. The Tribe's final run was knocked in with a single by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Probable pitchers today were Jim Bagby and Detroit's Al Benton, who shut out the Browns in his first start after two years in the Army.

DRAKE RELAYS TO BE ONE OF FINEST

Director Believes Field of 16 Colleges, 23 Universities Is Tops

By L. E. SKELEY

DES MOINES, April 27.—Iowa's interscholastic track and field stars touch off the 36th annual Drake Relays today, and Director M. E. (Bill) Easton believes he has the best field since many of the country's top-notchers marched away under the colors of Uncle Sam.

Easton is even optimistic that this crop of track youngsters in the collegiate ranks will crack a couple of Drake records, most of which were established before the track ranks were thinned by the war.

"Buoyant Bill" has a hunch that Ken Wiesner, the Marquette high jumper, might erase the Drake mark of 6 feet, 8 inches, and that Billy Moore, representing the Western Michigan Teachers might soar higher than the Drake pole vault mark of 14 feet, 1-16 inch.

One Ohio Champ

Wiesner is a defending Drake champion, one of a, three in the field. The others are Bill Bangert, Missouri athlete who can toss the shot better than 52 feet, and Harold Fisher, Miami (O.) University high hurdler.

In the relays division, Illinois, with nine triumphs in the last two years, again is expected to dominate the races. The Illini possibly will be without Bob Kelley, Big Ten 440 and half-mile champion, in the mile event but he is expected to complete in the sprint medley.

The approximately 350 athletes representing 16 colleges and 23 universities won't appear until tomorrow, as Iowa high school kids take over today's program.

U. S. NAVY ADDS TO RUBBER STOCK

RIO DE JANEIRO—Joint U. S.-Brazilian efforts to get crude rubber out of the jungle-bound Amazon valley paid off with 26,000 tons of high grade crude last year. As much or more is expected in 1945.

Of this amount, 10,000 tons went to Brazil under previous agreements and the remaining 16,000 tons played a vital part in U. S. war production.

The 1944 total got an unexpected boost when some 3,800 tons of high grade crude rubber was picked up along the Brazilian coast. It had floated there from German supply ships sunk by the U. C. Navy in the South Atlantic as they sought to take the rubber from Japan to the Reich's war factories.

Horses—and Dogs—Race in England

Racing may be blacked out in this country, but horses—and dogs—go to the post in England. Here the hounds are off in Spring Cup final at London's White City Stadium.

Salem Bids For Relay Cup!

Coach Fred E. Cope Takes Complete Squad to Uhrichsville Tomorrow In Effort To Hold Title

Coach Fred Cope's track squad, defending champions of the Uhrichsville relays, will trek down that way again tomorrow in an effort to again win the coveted cup in the 13-team invitational.

Last year's top-notch Quaker squad walked away with the meet but things loom much tougher for this year's Cope-trained aggregation. Several Columbus schools, Dover, New Philadelphia, Boardman, Uhrichsville, Dennison and two or three Canton schools made up the relay last year and the same turnout is expected tomorrow. Unquestionably favored to take the meet is the crack aggregation which performed here Tuesday. Boardman's track squad showed the all-around ability that makes meet winning an easy task in a dual affair at Rely stadium.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Best reason advanced so far for the resumption of the Kentucky Derby is year is reported by Earl Ruby of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Lieut. Joe Miller stationed in India, wrote Col. Matt Winn that he and Mrs. Miller had been married the day Omaha won—in 1935—and had celebrated their anniversary at the Derby each year since then. So would the colonel please proclaim a Derby day, race or no race, so they'd know when to celebrate their tenth anniversary. The American league has 675 movie prints in circulation throughout the world, mostly for the benefit of service men.

SHORTS AN DSHELLS

One thing holding up the Indians' deals to dispose of Jeff Heath is that Roger Peckinpaugh, who does the trading, can't make up his mind about what he wants. San Francisco isn't the only California spot feeling the effects of that fixed fight mess. A boxer now operating ground Los Angeles reports: "Every fight I've had here the gamblers have wanted to know if I was doing business. I told them 'when I box, everyone concerned gets a run for their money, even the gamblers, as I go out to win'." "Official Baseball," due on the stands by the end of the month, will include 1943 averages.

AKRON FIGHTER FAVORED

NEW YORK, April 27.—Seeking his 37th straight victory since turning pro 17 months ago, Freddie Schott was a topheavy choice to defeat Billie Grant in the main 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight.

The young, hard-punching heavyweight from Akron, Ohio, held about 30 pounds weight advantage over his orange, N. J., opponent but Grant gave Schott plenty of trouble despite losing in their three previous clashes.

Will Cast His Lot Against Field of Outdoor Men For a Change

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—The 51st annual Penn Relay carnival gets under way today with approximately 2,000 athletes trying to spike records at Franklin field.

Competitors as well as spectators will include hundreds of servicemen and ex-servicemen.

From 2 p. m. today until 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, representatives of high schools, preparatory schools, colleges, army camps and naval stations will vie in the relay races.

The entry list is touched with a Swedish flavor—Gunder Haegg in a mile handicap tomorrow and Haakon Lidman in the hurdles this afternoon.

Lots of Top Men

In six championship scholastic events, schoolboy runners loom as an outstanding relay feat. Older athletes, with records already to their credit, who have entered the relays are: New York Coast Guardman Eulace Peacock, national sprint and broad jump champion at Temple university as far back as 1935 and still the U. S. Pentathlon king; Camp Kilmer's Corp. Norwood (Barney) Ewell, three years ago the intercollegiate sprint and broad jump king at Penn State college; Navy Lieut. (jg) Gantt W. Miller, Rocky Mountain Conference star of a half dozen years ago, who, as an ensign, won the Penn relay hammer throw in 1944.

Lockland Wins Relays

CINCINNATI, April 27.—Lockland High school won the Plainville relays yesterday in suburban Mariemont, scoring 66½ points. Norwood was second with 47 and Plainville third with 40.

Lockland's relay team broke two meet records, winning the 880 in one minute 37 seconds and the mile in three minutes 39.2 seconds.

Newark Wins Again

COLUMBUS, April 27.—Newark of the Ohio State league defeated Lockbourne Army Air base, 7 to 4, in an exhibition seven-inning game yesterday.

Order for Paper Cups Requires 12-Page Form

ERIE, Pa.—Country Controlled Harvey M. Willis knows there's a paper shortage but does not think the government has realized it as yet.

He ordered 4,000 paper drinking cups but because of the paper shortage had to fill out a 12-page form, containing several hundred questions.

County employees will get the drinking cups when Willis finishes struggling through the form.

Connie Mack May Have Loop Dark Horse In Surging A's

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Editor

Connie Mack may have the American league "dark horse" in his Shibe park stable if Rookie Hal Peck and the veteran Philadelphia Athletics can hold their early spring form.

Tied for second place with the Yankees, because of a seven-run rally in the fourth inning against New York yesterday, Mr. Mack had reason to think "this might be the year."

Peck's .367 batting average must be pleasant music for the 82-year-old manager who paid a reported $50,000 cash and players to Milwaukee for the outfielder last fall. The Brooklyn Dodgers turned him down after he shot off a couple of tees sniping at rats but a .345 batting average in the American association had all the scouts buzzing around Milwaukee last summer.

Peck started the big inning yesterday with a single and he followed it with another base hit that drove in the tie-breaking tally next time around.

Walt Dubiel had a shout until the uprising when he gave way to Al Gettel but Starter Jesse Flores of the A's wasn't around to get the benefit, having departed in a Yankee surge in the top half of the same frame. Jittery Joe Berry finished up with a neat relief job, yielding only one single in the last five heats to protect the A's 7-5 lead.

With Buddy Hall enjoying a hit spree, Frankie Hays off to a good start and Russ Christopher, Don Black and Bobo Newsum in winning form, the A's rate a solid look.

Browns Nip Tribe
The St. Louis Browns showed signs of their 1944 stuff as Nels

Potter pitched and batted his to a 4-3 edge-over Cleveland in the first of a scheduled doubleheader. The second tilt was rained out. It was Potter's first victory and Vern Stephens celebrated with his initial homer.

Boston dropped its seventh in a row to Washington, 4-3. Johnny Niggeling did the honors for the Senators, scattering 10 hits and chiming in with a double and single. Mel Ott continued to get top-grade pitching from his New York Giants staff, this time from Harry Feldman, who spun a five-hit shutout in stopping the Phillies, 2-0. Ott's double produced one run and Ernie Lombardi's third homer of the year just made the left field stands for the other to spell defeat for Charley Schanz.

Cold weather caused postponement of the Brooklyn-Boston and Chicago-Cincinnati games in the National and the Detroit-Chicago tilt in the American. Pittsburgh and St. Louis were not scheduled.

Mullins Softball Team "Suffering" From Too Much Material

New Pilot, "Patsy" Konnerth To Choose From List Of 21 Players For Factory Team

Although the Salem China Co. softball team monopolized the Class A softball picture in Salem last season, the Mullins Mfg. Corp.—long a builder of championship teams—will be much in the picture this year with a stronger aggregation—on paper, at least—than the 1944 team which won 10 and lost 15 during the regular season.

The squad last season was piloted by Eddie Scullion, who plans to drop into a business managing capacity this year and turn the game reins over to George "Patsy" Konnerth, a veteran player.

Now honorably discharged from the Army after more than a year's service, Konnerth—already labeled "Connie Mack" by his players—will hold a workout at the field adjoining Reilly stadium at 6:15 p. m. Monday to iron out pre-season possibilities.

While most Class A teams are searching madly for material and crying over the dearth of manpower, Manager Konnerth has his problems exactly in reverse.

From last year's squad of 13 regulars, he has six returning veterans—all good material—plus a host of new and promising candidates who bring his team total to 21 players.

Back from last season are: Pitcher Marty Pauline, who won nine and lost 13; Outfielder Bernard Miglarini, who batted .180; Outfielder Vince Dominicki, who clubbed 200; Shortstop Gordy Scullion with an average of .211; Second Baseman John Balta, a .219 hitter and Outfielder Al Catlos, who was the league's third best hitter last year with .333 average.

Walter Brian (.296), Paxson, third baseman in 1944, is expected to work around first base for Mullins this season and Francis Lanney (.257), who hurled the Sheen's outfit to 13 wins in 25 games, will be performing for the factory men along with Pauline.

Bernard Schopfer, a former Piacentia hardballer, is an infield candidate and Jimmie Appedison, league's leading home run slugger in 1944, may play with Mullins.

Both the Salem China and Mullins are claiming the stocky third sacker this season and as yet a definite decision has not been reached. Appedison was slated to replace Razer Eddy, Potters third baseman, but may play with the Mullins outfit instead.

Newcomers to the Class A loop since last season and trying out for the factory crew Monday include: M. Dillinger, Carl Stahlsmith, J. Glenn, Jim Smith, Matt Leibhart, Bob Ingledue, Regis Donnelly, O. Fitch, N. Matsuk, T. Marino and D. Carrier.

Dillinger, Stahlsmith and Glenn are infield prospects while both Smith and Leibhart are catchers. The rest of the new candidates are outfielders.

From the collection of top-notch material, Konnerth is expected to mould one of the finest aggregations to represent Mullins in several years.

His prospects of upsetting the top China crew are especially good in that a pair of veteran and formidable pitchers are available, whereas the Potters have only one.

Lanney is noted as having one of the fastest arms in the league and his control is a far cry from poor. He stopped batters cold last year and dropped the majority of his games as a result of poor fielding and hitting support from his teammates. He is also talented at the plate and will be an able assistant for the Veteran Pauline, a crafty hurler in his own right.

Gone from the 1944 Mullins lineup are Alec Simion (.145), Jerry Smith (.134), Cornelius Sobotka (.190), Bill Falcon (.228), Bill Zimmerman (.233), Wally Linder (.294), and Veteran Merle Caldwell (.300).

Several of the above are now in service and others have declined to play.

INDIANS SEEKING A TOUCH OF GOOD WEATHER AND SOON

Second of Double Header Rained Out Yesterday As Browns Win One

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, April 27—Cleveland's Indians beat their war drums for a bit of sunshine today as the Detroit Tigers arrived in the Forest city to open a three-game series with the Tribe.

The Indians finally played one game yesterday of a series with the St. Louis Browns—and that was one too many. Luke Sewell's boys won, 4 to 3. The contest, scheduled as the opener of a doubleheader, was halted twice by rain. No attempt was made to start the second game.

The Browns' one-armed Pete Gray, scoring the tying run in the eighth inning, made a circus catch of a windblown fly to throw a runner out at second, and lashed out two singles. Nelson Potter won his first victory of the season, driving in the winning run in the ninth and set the Tribesmen down with seven hits. Vernon (Junior) Stephens, heavy-hitting shortstop, poled home a run.

Catcher Hank Ruskowski drove in the first two Indian tallies with a single in the fourth. The Tribe's final run was knocked in with a single by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Probable pitchers today were Jim Bagby and Detroit's Al Benton, who shut out the Browns in his first start after two years in the Army.

DRAKE RELAYS TO BE ONE OF FINEST

Director Believes Field of 16 Colleges, 23 Universities Is Tops

BY L. E. SKELLEY

DES MOINES, April 27—Iowa's interscholastic track and field stars touch off the 36th annual Drake Relays today, and Director M. E. (Bill) Easton believes he has the best field since many of the country's top-notchers marched away under the colors of Uncle Sam.

Easton is even optimistic that this crop of track youngsters in the collegiate ranks will crack a couple of Drake records, most of which were established before the track ranks were thinned by the war.

"Buoyant Bill" has a hunch that Ken Wiesner, the Marquette high jumper, might erase the Drake mark of 6 feet, 8 inches, and that Billy Moore, representing the Western Michigan Teachers might soar higher than the Drake pole vault mark of 14 feet, 1-16 inch.

One Ohio Champ

Wiesner is a defending Drake champion, one of a three in the field. The others are Bill Bangert, Missouri athlete who can toss the shot better than 32 feet, and Harold Fisher, Miami (O.) University high hurdler.

In the relays division, Illinois, with nine triumphs in the last two years, again is expected to dominate the races. The Illini possibly will be without Bob Kelley, Big Ten 440 and half-mile champion, in the mile event but he is expected to complete in the sprint medley.

The approximately 350 athletes representing 16 colleges and 23 universities won't appear until tomorrow, as Iowa high school kids take over today's program.

U. S. NAVY ADDS TO RUBBER STOCK

RIO DE JANEIRO—Joint U. S.-Brazilian efforts to get crude rubber out of the jungle-bound Amazon valley paid off with 26,000 tons of high grade crude last year. As much or more is expected in 1945.

Of this amount, 10,000 tons went to Brazil under previous agreements and the remaining 16,000 tons played a vital part in U. S. war production.

The 1944 total got an unexpected boost when some 3,800 tons of high grade crude rubber was picked up along the Brazilian coast. It had floated there from German supply ships sunk by the U. C. Navy in the South Atlantic as they sought to take the rubber from Japan to the Reich's war factories.

Horses—and Dogs—Race in England

Racing may be blacked out in this country, but horses—and dogs go to the post in England. Here the hounds are off in Spring Cup final at London's White City Stadium.

Salem Bids For Relay Cup!

Coach Fred E. Cope Takes Complete Squad to Uhrichsville Tomorrow In Effort To Hold Title

Coach Fred Cope's track squad, defending champions of the Uhrichsville relays, will trek down that way again tomorrow in an effort to again win the coveted cup in the 13-team invitational.

Last year's top-notch Quaker squad walked away with the meet but things loom much tougher for this year's Cope-trained aggregation. Several Columbus schools, Dover, New Philadelphia, Boardman, Uhrichsville, Dennison and two or three Canton schools made up the relay last year and the same turnout is expected tomorrow.

Unquestionably favored to take the meet is the crack aggregation which performed here Tuesday. Boardman's track squad showed the all-around ability that makes meet winning an easy task in a dual affair at Reilly stadium.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Best reason advanced so far for the resumption of the Kentucky Derby is reported by Earl Ruby of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Lieut. Joe Miller stationed in India, wrote Col. Matt Winn that he and Mrs. Miller had been married the day Omaha won—in 1935—and had celebrated their anniversary at the Derby each year since then.... So would the colonel please proclaim a Derby day, race or no race, so they'd know when to celebrate their tenth anniversary.... The American league has 675 movie prints in circulation throughout the world, mostly for the benefit of service men.

which it couldn't publish last year because of the paper shortage.

SHORTS AN DSHILLS

One thing holding up the Indians' deals to dispose of Jeff Heath is that Roger Peckinpaugh, who does the trading, can't make up his mind about what he wants.... San Francisco isn't the only California spot feeling the effects of that fixed fight mess. A boxer now operating around Los Angeles reports: "Every fight I've had here the gamblers have wanted to know if I was doing business. I told them 'when I box, everyone concerned gets a run for their money, even the gamblers, as I go out to win'.... 'Official Baseball,' due on the stands by the end of the month, will include 1945 averages.

Connie Mack May Have Loop Dark Horse In Surging A's

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Editor

Connie Mack may have the American league "dark horse" in his Shibe park stable if Rookie Hal Peck and the veteran Philadelphia Athletics can hold their early spring form.

Tied for second place with the Yankees, because of a seven-run rally in the fourth inning against New York yesterday, Mr. Mack had reason to think "this might be the year."

Peck's .367 batting average must be pleasant music for the 82-year-old manager who paid a reported $50,000 cash and players to Milwaukee for the outfielder last fall. The Brooklyn Dodgers turned him down after he shot off a couple of toes sniping at rats but a .345 batting average in the American association had all the scouts buzzing around Milwaukee last summer.

Peck started the big inning yesterday with a single and he followed it with another base hit that drove in the tie-breaking tally next time around.

Walt Dubiel had a shout until the uprising when he gave way to Al Gettel but Starter Jesse Flores of the A's wasn't around to get the benefit, having departed in a Yankee surge in the top half of the same frame. Jittery Joe Berry finished up with a neat relief job, yielding only one single in the last five heats to protect the A's 7-5 lead.

With Buddy Hall enjoying a hit spree, Frankie Hayes off to a good start and Russ Christopher, Don Black and Bobo Newsom in winning form, the A's rate a second look.

Browns Nip Tribe

The St. Louis Browns showed signs of their 1944 stuff as Nels

Potter pitched and batted his way to a 4-3 edge-over Cleveland in the first of a scheduled doubleheader. The second tilt was rained out. It was Potter's first victory and Vern Stephens celebrated with his initial homer.

Boston dropped its seventh in a row to Washington, 4-3. Johnny Niggeling did the honors for the Senators, scattering 10 hits and chiming in with a double and single.

Mel Ott continued to get top grade pitching from his New York Giants staff, this time from Harry Feldman, who spun a five-hit shutout in stopping the Phillies, 2-0. Ott's double produced one run and Ernie Lombardi's third homer of the year just made the left field stands for the other to spell defeat for Charley Schanz.

Cold weather caused postponement of the Brooklyn-Boston and Chicago-Cincinnati games. The National and the Detroit-Chicago tilt in the American, Pittsburgh and St. Louis were not scheduled.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK by Hal Boyle

WITH THE U. S. 69TH DIVISION, ATTACKING LEIPZIG — Medical corps men had their first "champagne chow line" of the war in Naumburg.

Huge stores of champagne, cognac and food were captured in Nazi supply dumps at the Bismarck caserne, and a small amount was parceled out to the first units to take the city.

As they passed the mess table each medic was asked by a grinning cook standing with a bottle in one hand and a dipper in the other: "Champagne or coffee?" Believe it or not, a lot of coffee was drunk.

During a lull in the fighting Lt. Bert A. Lewis of Los Angeles and Pfc. C. S. Woolridge of Meadow Bridge, W. Va., did some fishing in a little stream. They used willow boughs for poles and thin wire for a line.

While Woolridge fussed with a snagged line, the lieutenant pulled out two beautiful rainbow trout. Woolridge gave an outraged tug on his fouled line, and up it came, with a package which contained a Luger pistol, prize item of all souvenir collectors, and two magazines of shells in good condition.

Tank-riding doughboys met a new kind of Nazi "delaying action" while taking over a small village in the drive to Leipzig.

They were grabbing prisoners in all directions when German told Staff Sgt. Robert S. Slaik, Atlanta, Ga.: "There's one more to come. He's shaving."

The Americans, who had not had time to wash or shave for days, collared the prisoner and took him along, lathered and spluttering.

A German prisoner described a new Nazi secret weapon to Sgt. Bob Loftus, former Buffalo, N. Y., newspaper man whose wife is a public health nurse in Hattiesburg, Miss. "We call it the 'V-3,'" he said. "It is very delicate. The Nazis set it up in a cemetery. If it picks up the slightest movement they dig the man up and put him in the home guard."
